Fine M. S. M. Hand-Made $20.00 Suits, $16.75

"Man's Store" special made garments for 1910-1911. Every one a new idea in style—fabrics that are the best we've ever put into garments for $20—the tailor would say $30. The cloths are the right kind, absolutely pure wool—worsteds—cassimeres—tweeds and chevots. Browns—grays—blues and blacks. Hundreds of suits to select from in every model and size for the young man, and the man who wants to look young.

You can afford to buy two or three of them at $16.75, and you'll be as well dressed as if you paid $100 to a tailor.

The advantage is all yours. You can try them on, see if they're becoming—you'll buy them, we feel confident of that, after looking in the mirror.

Every Suit carries our guarantee of "Money's Worth or Money Back."

COMMITTEE MEETS.

Board of Trade Wants Local Man as Superintendent of Insurance.

The appointment of a Washington man as the new superintendent of insurance, a uniform high-pressure system for the entire city, and more adequate fire protection for the outlying districts were the three measures advocated by the insurance committee of the Board of Trade in their meeting yesterday afternoon.

The full membership of the committee was represented at the meeting, with E. C. Brandenburg, chairman, presiding. Several routine matters were considered preparatory to the annual meeting of the board next month, and a tentative outline prepared for the committee report.

REV. DR. GRANGER INSTALLED.

Now Pastor of the Gunton-Temple Memorial Church.

With simple but impressive ceremonies, the Presbytery of Washington, Synod of Baltimore, installed the Rev. Charles Everett Granger as pastor of Gunton-Temple Memorial Church last evening.

Rev. Charles L. Nelbel, moderator of the presbytery, and pastor of the Eastern Presbyterian Church, presided and pronounced the constitutional questions. Rev. Charles Wood made the charge to the pastor, and Rev. George Robinson made the charge to the people.

The sermon of the evening was directed by the Rev. Wallace Radcliffe, pastor of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church.

During the services the church choir rendered selected music, and after the services the members of the session, the trustees, the deacons of the church, and the congregation came forward to the platform and welcomed the new pastor.

REV. J. RICHARDS NOT GUILTY.

Pastor Tried on Charges Preferred by a Deacon.

Rev. John Richards, pastor of the Rebooth Baptist Church, was tried by the church council last night on charges preferred by a deacon of his congregation, George De Bray, and was found not guilty.

The verdict was a unanimous one, and the exonerated of the pastor means that he will probably continue at the head of the Rebooth Church, as it is believed the majority of the congregation favors him. He has been active in conducting crusades on gambling in the southwestern part of the city.

Call on Mayor of Tokyo.

The District Commissioners yesterday made a return call on Yukio Ozaki, mayor of Tokyo, and his wife, who are stepping at the Shoreham Hotel.

PHI CHI FRAT DANCE.

Members of Georgetown Medical School Make Merry.

Members of the Phi Chi Fraternity of the Georgetown Medical School held their first dance of the season last night at Carroll Institute Hall.

Refreshments were served, and about fifty couples danced until an early hour. Owing to the popularity of the dances last year, the committee in charge has decided to give one each month.

The fraternity has just moved into its new quarters at Massachusetts avenue and Tenth street northwest, where they will give a reception to the faculty of the medical school next Thursday night.

STABLES ARE INSANITARY.

Present Conditions of Cruelty to Street-cleaning Horses.

Commissioner Johnston vouches for a statement that the stables of the street cleaning department, in the alley between N and O streets and Ninth and Tenth streets northwest, are so foul and unfit for their purpose, that they present conditions of inconceivable cruelty for the working horses.

In his report to the Commissioners yesterday, Deputy Health Officer H. F. Sawtelle declared the stables to be a menace to the health of the neighborhood.

Dr. C. B. Robinson, the District veterinarian, in his report, bears out fully the statements of Dr. Sawtelle. He declared that the lack of proper ventilation makes the conditions intolerably cruel to the working horses, and that numerous cases have been counted when the horses have dropped from heat exhaustion, due solely to the conditions of the stable.

Commissioner Johnston said that steps would be taken at once to put the stables in a sanitary condition.

WICKERSHAM ACTS IN MILK INQUIRY

Charges of an Alleged Trust Ordered Probed.

TRUNDLE RECITES TESTIMONY

Representative of Producers in District and Vicinity Appears Before Chamber of Commerce Again and Is Cautioned to Substantiate Assertions—Other Witnesses Heard.

Attorney General Wickersham yesterday directed his official "trust-buster," W. S. Kenyon, to investigate charges of an alleged milk trust, with headquarters in New York financial district.

The charges originated with milk dealers in Washington and vicinity, who are being hard pressed by the health authorities in their efforts to purify the milk supply furnished to people of the District.

At the hearing before the Commissioners Corbin Thompson and A. S. Trundle charged that local health authorities and certain scientists in the Department of Agriculture were hand in glove with a "multimillionaire trust for the control of the milk supply of the country."

Up to Attorney General.

The Attorney General is not entirely clear as to what can be done in the matter. If the complaint is directed against certain men who have acquired patents on pasteurizing machines the matter would hardly fall within the Sherman anti-trust law. But whatever the results of the quest, the Attorney General is determined to make a thorough investigation.

The first session of the investigation ordered by the Chamber of Commerce occupied several hours yesterday afternoon, but was almost entirely devoid of interest, as the chief witness, A. S. Trundle, devoted most of his time in giving a rehash of the testimony presented before the Commissioners.

Charges Not Substantiated.

J. Louis Willige, chairman of the committee, was not disposed to give much time to receiving unsubstantiated charges, and cautioned Mr. Trundle that as he had demanded the investigation, he must come before the committee with proof of his assertions, whereupon Mr. Trundle filed several volumes of reports from the health department, Department of Agriculture, and medical associations. Two other witnesses, W. A. Simpson and J. W. Castle, gave their views before the committee, but added little to the mass of testimony offered the Commissioners on Thursday. The hearing will be continued at 4 o'clock on Tuesday of next week, when it is expected that several farmers and dairymen from Maryland and Virginia will be present to speak for the producers.

POLICE ON THE HUNT.

Central Office Sleuths Search for "Lieut. Commander Knowlson."

Central office detectives, Pinkerton men, and other private agency detectives searching for "Lieutenant Commander Henry Knowlson, U. S. N.," the pseudo naval officer, who swindled Washington business men on Wednesday last with bogus checks aggregating $3,350, believe he will escape the police net for weeks, and probably months.

The police say the man planned his escape as carefully as he planned the method by which he obtained $3,000 worth of government bonds and a diamond ring valued at $50, but it is believed impossible for him to elude the police net long. "Lieut. Commander Knowlson's" trans-

Mrs. Annie Dudley Denies All Charges of Infidelity.

Denying all charges of infidelity and declaring that the charges of her husband in the cross bill, in which he names three former boarders as co-respondents, are the execution of a threat, made prior to the filing of her suit for a legal separation, Mrs. Annie McKee Dudley yesterday filed her answer to the cross bill of her husband, John Gurney Dudley.

MAY STOP TANDEM RIDING.

Commissioners Consider "Joy Trips" on Motorcycles Dangerous.

Although the Commissioners do not care to go in for "paternal regulations," they may take action to prevent tandem riding on motor cycles. This form of "joy riding" is considered dangerous in view of recent accidents.

Commissioner Johnston has ordered a report on all accidents resulting from this form of riding, and a police regulation may follow.
